

Bee Keepers Buzz Like Hornets Over Edict To Banish City Bees

The busy bee faces virtual extinction in Penticton if City Council accede to demands of a petitioning group who oppose living in close proximity to these valuable insects. It is estimated 100 colonies are kept in Penticton.

Economic Sting Felt If Bees Banned

Valuable in this fruit growing area because of their pollination activities, let alone flowers, their growing importance in view of the fact that parathion, DDT and other factors are gradually killing off wild bees and other pollen-carrying insects; the denial of a hobby to many youngsters, some of whom study agriculture as part of their course; the fact is that if bees could not be kept within 500 feet of a residence within city limits, beekeeping would be wiped out here.

These are some of the points to be laid on the table at Monday night's council meeting by a representative group from local members of the B.C. Honey Producers' Association, who met Wednesday to discuss the city's proposed restrictive bylaw against bees.

Council found the equivalent of an angry swarm around them following two complaints about stinging bees, one of the protests in the form of a petition.

It was agreed to prepare a restrictive bylaw, but now the honey men feel everybody will eventually get an economic sting if the ban is imposed.

"What good would it do restricting bees to areas outside of the city downtown areas?" they ask, "when they will fly six miles in search of honey?"

Fence Will Send Bees Skyrocketing

Another apiarist wanted to know what was proposed for wasps and hornets. "They don't pollinate and don't die after stinging," he said, "whereas the tame bee literally commits suicide by administering a sting."

Still another apiarist said, "reduced yields were partly attributable to killing off of wild bees, and as an example pointed to an alfalfa grower, whose yield showed a marked increase when hives of bees were placed in his field."

Distance "as the crow flies" doesn't quite apply to the bee who doesn't waver in his flight, his beeline being the actual shortest distance from home to source of supply.

Apiarists have what they think is a solution. They explain it this way: when a bee takes off from a hive he is flying at low altitude. By erecting a fence about six feet high in the line of flight, he'll clear all obstacles on takeoff.

This would minimize the danger of human beings getting stung. It's when a person gets in direct line with a low-flying bee that trouble can occur, especially if the bee becomes entangled in the hair, falls inside the clothing or gets meshed in woollens. That's when they'll sting, beekeepers say.

Kept Mostly For Pollenization

Actually, beekeeping in this area doesn't represent much by way of dollars and cents return. Most orchardists keep them for pollenization purposes only. A hive might return up to $10-$15 and one of the largest local apiarists has 23 hives.

Beekeepers admit the insect is in stinging mood when honey is being removed from the hive, but they add that smoke is generally used to dull his senses. Reaction of the bee is to dive in and fill up. When he has a full "tummy" he's not in a stinging mood, actually finds it physically as hard to sting as a man with an excessive bay window has difficulty in tying his shoelaces.

Another honey produced, in referring to building a fence to force the bee into the said, said, "even a slat fence will do. The bee won't go through it, he's too engrossed in his work."

"If they ban bees they should clean up hornets and wasps too," a man who knows his apiculture said. "As a matter of fact many people confuse bees with wasps and hornets. I was called over by a neighbor who said a swarm of bees wouldn't let his family outdoors. They weren't bees, they were hornets."

Importance of bees in pollenization is well known by the orchardist. This is especially true of cherries, most of which are self-sterile. Some apples are the same, particularly Delicious variety.

Bees From Downtown In Orchards

Right now, hives from downtown Penticton are sitting in some cherry orchards while bees pollinate the blossoms.

"What makes this a very important factor," a beekeeper explained, "is that perhaps tomorrow the grower will want to apply Parathion. We'll move the bees out beforehand because we have control over them. That is where wild bees are being killed off, because we have no control over them."

The same man said that some years ago a deadly poison, arsenate of lead, was used in spraying.

Film Council Meeting

The first B.C. Film Council convention takes place this weekend on the S.S. Sicomus on Saturday and Sunday.

Sixty delegates are expected from all parts of the province. Gordon Harris, president of the Penticton Film Council is in charge of the conference.

Delegates will talk over the matters of film distribution, and the use and encouragement to various organizations. Among those attending are:

Norman Burton, supervisor of the Audio-Visual services of The University of British Columbia, Extension Department, Vancouver; K. A. Williams, B.C. Supervisor, National Film Board, Vancouver; Ernest Belyon, Victoria; Mr. Orr, Kootenay District Representative; Walter Goodland, Okanagan Representative of the National Film Board.

WINNER OF THE CITY BAND'S first talent concert was Doug Kilburn, $25 richer as a result of his impersonation of Al Jolson. Kilburn centres the above picture. On the left is Jim Onley, adjudicator, and on the right, Ken Almond, band master. The second concert will be held next Thursday, the third on May 17 and the fourth on May 24 and the grande finale May 31.

Tory Clamors For Howe's Resignation Over Pipeline

OTTAWA — (BUP) — The pipeline issue erupted in parliament again today amid charges that Trade Minister C. D. Howe "misled the Commons and the Cabinet" and an oblique suggestion from one opposition member that Howe should resign.

"In view of the fiasco that's been perpetrated on the Canadian people with regard to the pipeline, is the minister considering his resignation?" asked Harry White (PC-Middlesex East).

His question came at the tag end of a broadside from the Conservative benches.

The minister, amid applause from the Liberal benches, rose with a smile to say that he would be "only too glad to debate all aspects" of the cross-country natural gas line when the government measure on it comes before the house.

A flurry of Conservative questions stemmed from an accusation levelled by John Diefenbaker (PC-Prince Albert) as soon as the house opened. The Saskatchewan Tory charged Howe with "cavalier and flagrant contempt of parliament."

Howe hotly denied the charge. Diefenbaker said Howe misled parliament by declaring last April 13 that he had received no offer from Frank McMahon, multi-millionaire Alberta promoter, to build a Trans-Canada pipe line without government assistance, when an April 4 letter from McMahon to Howe was tabled.

Jaycees Debate On Store Hours

Recognizing that the question of store closing hours is an important one, members of the Penticton Junior Chamber of Commerce expressed their viewpoints at some length last night, then turned the matter over to a committee for further study.

Fears were expressed that Monday closing, favored by many who have answered a questionnaire circulated by the Board of Trade, would hurt the tourist industry.

Speakers pointed out that many tourists arrive on the weekend consequently would be unable to shop until Tuesday if Monday closing were inaugurated.

Others, however, remarked that the five-day week is becoming widely accepted and the store clerk should receive the same break as many other workers.

Kaleden Youngster Injured Training For Track Meet

Diane Allington, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geoff Allington, Kaleden, a grade 8A student, injured her leg when she was doing a high jump at track at school yesterday. It is understood that the kneecap and muscles are hurt, and an operation is to be performed on Tuesday.

Diane was to play in "The Cloak", a one-act play entered in the Okanagan Valley Musical Festival at Vernon by James Onley.

Donna Marie Hauser was presented with a scholarship on Wednesday evening in Vancouver by the Provincial Council of B.C. Canadian Daughters' League.

The award is given for the Canadian student between the ages of 15 and 18 showing the most musical talent in the open concert group at the B.C. Musical Festival.

RCAF 60-Piece Band Coming For Peach Festival

The 60-piece RCAF Band from Edmonton will be in Penticton for the entire Peach Festival. This information was given to the Peach Festival Association meeting Wednesday by Maurice Finerty, president, at one of the first directors' meetings held in the Inco Hotel.

The meeting talked over this year's problems concerning the Festival. "This year's budget has been based upon the success of last year's Festival, and has been given a detailed analysis with the objective of further reducing the debt of the association."

According To The Mood

COMPLIMENT? COULD BE — Reader writes — "And thanks for all the humor put into your 'Mood'. Certainly you should have been a Philadelphia Lawyer — best wishes."

Should have been a Philadelphia Lawyer — hummm — I've an uneasy feeling that the definition of a Philadelphia lawyer is one who can talk the hind leg off a donkey. That makes the second letter this week suggesting that I'm a humorist, heaven forbid. I'd hate to think I had to turn out a humorous column three times a week — that requires talent far in excess of anything I can ever hope to possess.

Surprising how far afield this Penticton Herald goes. "Promenade" this week is saying hello to a reader way back in Toronto. I had a letter from Saskatoon which said, "Mr. Mood when are you going to write some more about guys like Muskoka Slim?" There was no signature, no address, but whoever he is, the request will be heeded one of these days.

MORE ABOUT BEES — Understand that members of City Council will attend Monday's session wearing bee nets. A council edict that, if implemented, will forbid the keeping of bees within the city limits, has aroused, not the bees, but the bee keepers.

The bee keepers are unanimous that council's edict is ridiculous and this writer goes right along with them. What I hadn't realized was the number of bees we have being busy around the city; they must run into millions. And what happens if the busy little bees are located just on the outskirts of the city? The critters will fly back, because it is in this city of homes and gardens that they can pick up a lot of nectar and do a job of garden pollenization long after the fruit tree pollenization job is done.

As for trying to keep the bees out — well King Canute tried that with the tide one day — all he got was wet feet.

The bee keepers say a fence will put the bees up in the air and keep them out of people's hair. My own idea is that most people get stung because they panic when a bee comes a-buzzing. They slap and wave and the bee attacks in self defence.

Women are particularly prone to hysterics when any variety of stinger is around, yet it's a 100 to one, that if the buzzer is ignored nothing will happen.

Of course if you sit on a bee or a wasp or a hornet, well you'd bite too if somebody up

Verbal Snipings Across Border

A century of peace has prevailed across the line between Canada and the United States. Everyone on both sides surely hopes there will be another century. But while no shots have been fired across the border, verbal shafts have. Little causes for irritation keep springing up, and they are becoming numerous.

The question of development of water resources is one point of irritation here in the Northwest. Canada is talking about diverting the water of the Columbia through a tunnel into the Fraser River, making it all Canadian. The U.S. is interested in that water when it flows southward across the line and into the Pacific.

Business Week in its current issue points out some of the other irritants that are causing trouble on both sides of the line.

American investment in Canadian oil and mines is worrying many Canadians. They fear U.S. control of Canadian industry, if the trend continues.

The proposed Canadian gas line from the Peace River country across the line worries others. Our proposal to back the water of the Columbia across the border 40 miles with Libby Dam is another. So far the Canadians have thumbed down this entirely, even though we offered to recompense them for the power we gained.

On the other hand the U.S. has recently protested the imposition of a Canadian tax on advertising in U.S. magazines that put out a separate Canadian edition. The tariff question bobs up from time to time and causes irritation. Both British Columbia and the U.S. raise fruit, which is competitive in the markets. So is lumber, shingles, wheat and livestock.

Actually, the two countries are as much interdependent as are two U.S. States—say Washington and Oregon, or Idaho and Washington. Our people are so much alike and our economies so similar that it is hard to realize that we are two separate countries.

One of the things that makes for closer ties between us is the ease with which we can cross the line into Canada, and they into the U.S.

Streams of Canadian cars flow over our highways, and pour across Stevens Pass both east and west. About the only way you can tell a Canadian from an American is by the car license. In a group of people from both countries at a gathering, they are indistinguishable. Every year the Rotary Clubs of British Columbia and the states of Washington, Idaho and part of Montana gather in a joint district conference.

There are 51 clubs in this international district, almost equally divided between Canada and the U.S. As of next July this district will be divided into two, but the dividing line will run north and south, thus preserving the international aspect again. Each subdivision will be about half Canadian and half U.S.

Next week this district conference will be held in Spokane. Another for the area west of the Cascades was held in Seattle recently, again comprising clubs of the two countries.

With so much in common, it seems inconceivable that the two countries should drift apart. Actually they have more in common than our own North and South.

Business Week points out that criticism and resentment in some parts of the Canadian press, and by some Canadian politicians is becoming more common, and adds, we will have to admit that we give them some cause. Which may be so, but there is much more cause for us to continue being good friends and neighbors.

SHARES VIEWPOINT

We wish to express wholehearted thanks for the views expressed in Sid Godber's column under date of Friday, April 20. It made us feel that we were not alone in our dispute against the Teamsters, and appreciate any publicity where facts are brought out in the open for all concerned to read.

The majority of employees in the fruit packing plants are people who have worked in this valley and district for a number of years. We also have our homes here, which a lot of us own, and we educate our children in our local schools.

We spend the money we earn in our City, and our dues which were collected by the Federation were also spent in the Valley. That's the way we want to keep it, and so, we need everyone's support to protect our Canadian way of life.

Thanking you for your support we remain,

FLUORINE "RAT POISON"

Do you like rat poison? You mean you haven't tried it? If and when sodium fluoride is added to the city water supply, you will not like it, or dislike it, it is colorless, odorless, and tasteless. In effect, it is the most efficient, effective, and deadly rat poison known to man.

The six dentists who spoke to the P.M.A. meeting here recently, declare that fluoridation of our city water supply would not be mass medication, I agree with them: The contamination of food or drink with any poison, in any amount regardless of the smallness or apparent harmlessness, is ADULTERATION.

I do not question the sincerity of the professional men who addressed this meeting, but I was greatly disappointed in their lack of knowledge on this important subject, and their complete inability to answer questions either intelligently or scientifically. As is usual with those who are ill-informed, they resorted to name-calling and referred to anyone who might not agree as "cranks". Each read his small portion of prepared and pre-digested propaganda, probably mass-propaganda circulated to all dentists in Canada. I know, not. Obviously none was prepared to carry on a discussion.

Dr. Fred Netherton stated that so far as is known all human systems will absorb fluoride. That is true, only of organic fluoride, such as is found in foods; tomatoes, cabbage, and whole wheat are particularly rich in it, foods like these are essential in the building of good teeth and bones. Sodium fluoride is the substance used to fluoridate water. It is impossible for the system to absorb it, it is a deadly poison, highly corrosive, and cumulative in the body; common uses are in etching glass and in making rat poison. As yet, little is known of the long-term effects of this substance on the internal organs. Dr. Chas. A. Brush, Director of the Medical Centre, Cambridge, Mass., states that some of the harmful effects of fluorides are:

1. Damage to the brain and nerve cells.
2. Harm to the reproductive organs.
3. Affects the thyroid gland and damages the liver.
4. Causes bones to be very brittle and hence creates a high incidence of bone fracture. It is interesting to note here that the bones of cattle raised in those areas where there is an excess of sodium fluoride in the water and soil are so brittle that they cannot be used in the bone-carving industry.

The children who were used as guinea pigs in the Bradford experiment with fluoridated water, may indeed live to curse the day, since as yet, no man knows what the long-term effect on their health will be. To what avail are good teeth, if a child's health is ruined in other ways? To date it is not even established if their teeth will continue to be relatively free from cavities; sodium fluoride has a tendency to cause the enamel to become very brittle and with added years it cracks readily.

No research has as yet been done to determine the effects of fluoridated water on sick people, but it has been established that even in healthy humans, the normal sugar metabolism is disturbed by it. This does not mean that it causes diabetes, but what would be the effect upon a diabetic? Doctors thought they had a final answer in the drug, penicillin, that it was safe for all. It has since been discovered that one in twenty has a violent reaction to it, indeed, many have died as a result of its use. There is no mention made of those who have half-died, or of those who still suffer ill-health. Penicillin is something that we can accept or reject, but drinking water we all must take.

Perhaps fluorine is a good thing, but before it is given to populations en masse, we should know the results of experiments now in progress, we should know whether sick children or adults with kidney disease, diabetes, fracture of a bone, thyroid disturbances, tuberculosis, or any chronic disease, are able to eliminate the poison as effectively as normal people do. A check of the vital statistics of Grand Rapids, Mich. shows that in 1944 deaths from heart disease numbered 585, four years after fluoridation started, there were 1,059 deaths. There was an increase of 50 per cent in the deaths from nephritis during these four years. Perhaps the presence of sodium fluoride in the water was not the cause, I do not know, these are but statistics. Our six city dentists say that fluoridation of water is safe. I believe our city doctors agree with them.

Dr. Day has stated that the age in which fluoridation is most beneficial is from the pre-natal state to about fourteen years, while the teeth are being formed. In view of the fact that sodium fluoride cannot be assimilated by the human body, the teeth of the unborn child could not possibly be affected by the mother drinking water polluted with fluoride. If she wants her child to have strong teeth there is no substitute for a good, wholesome diet with particular attention to those foods which are rich in organic fluoride, which is assimilated by the body. The effect of sodium fluoride on the unborn child has not as yet been established. People who live on a diet rich in natural fluorides will obtain plenty of fluoride to build good teeth. If, in addition, they are forced to drink fluoridated water, they run the risk of having unsightly, mottled teeth, caused by an excess of intake of fluoride. Beware your cup of tea or coffee made with fluoridated water; fluoride concentrates with boiling, don't let that kettle boil too long, you may never know the reason why you felt so sick.

If numbers of people wish to try fluoride as a tooth preservative, why not get some company like Colgate's to put out a brand of toothpaste containing sodium fluoride?

In conclusion I would like to state that after lengthy and careful research, Sweden, Switzerland, the French Dental Association, the Pasteur Institution, and the Bureau of Human Nutrition at Oxford University, have all rejected fluoridation. "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread."

STRONGLY AGAINST TEAMSTERS

The outsider who is foolish enough to try to mediate in domestic quarrels usually ends up by having both belligerents pile on to him and he is lucky if he emerges from the fracas with nothing worse than a "mouse". But there are always fools who will rush in where angels fear to tread.

Living on the prairie I am, I suppose, so far as the affairs of the Okanagan Valley are concerned, a rank outsider and in attempting to butt in on the P.M.A. squabble it may be thought that I am also a "mouse" but let's not go into that.

Our usually humorous friend Sid Godber in his column (April 20) makes serious reference to an article in Life magazine concerning the Teamsters' Union. I have not read the article but I have read two articles in Reader's Digest on the same subject which disclose a state of affairs in the IFT so unbelievably shocking that it is inconceivable that any union in Canada, no matter what might be gained by affiliation, would ever have contemplated, becoming identified with such an outfit had they known the facts!

Sid Godber says, "I suppose the pro-teamsters' element here will argue that's just in the United States and that the Teamsters' Canadian affiliations are different." There are always those who say "It can't happen here", and without making invidious comparisons between the judiciary and the legal profession of Canada and the USA I'd like to think it couldn't, but, again as Sid Godber says, "You can't play with mud without getting splattered". And certainly such desperately invidious men as the head of the Teamsters' Un-

Another successful dance was held in Oliver by the O's and Lights Club, and Bill Dickson of Omak, Washington, kept the program moving at a rapid pace, and the 100 dancers participating had a marvelous time, and the feast after the dancing ended was very much enjoyed.

Next Saturday — that is, May 5 the Peach City Promenaders will hold another dance session at the Masonic Hall. Local callers will be in charge of the program, and a varied program has been arranged. The last local dance before the summer recess will be held in the Masonic Hall on Saturday, May 10, and this will be party night. All dancers are asked to bring a light lunch, (enough for one couple), and coffee will be provided. The dance on May 19 will start at 9 o'clock.

The Round Dance lessons are also coming to a close for the recess. Two more lessons are arranged for, and these are on Thursday, May 3, and May 10. Other dances of note are as follows:

Trail Jamboree — May 11 and 12. Circle K, of Keremeos is sponsoring a dance in the high school to commemorate the Keremeos "50th Jubilee" on May 21. Nelson Jamboree in the civic arena on June 2. Summerland Jubilee Day on June 6. Les Boyer will be in charge of the Nelson and Summerland Jamborees. Osoyoos Cherry Carnival Jamboree on July 2, with Les Boyer in charge. Don't forget the Washington State Festival to be held in Seattle on May 25 and 26.

From far away Ontario we received a letter from Jennie Mel drum, who says that she reads the column each time it appears. Jennie read about our benefit dance and enclosed a donation. Thanks Jennie—your generosity is appreciated. The Promenaders Dance Club has completed the organization for the Third Annual B.C. Square Dance Jamboree to be held with the Peach Festival on August 16, to 18 inclusive, and almost every member will be asked to assist with the work. If someone calls you up and tells you that you are to take part in the work, do not hesitate to accept the assignment.

It's a lot of fun working in a group for a common purpose, and the people you meet and friends you make is a rich reward for the effort made on behalf of this community activity.

Margaret and Jim Hendry and Gladys and Percy Coulter are in Chilliwack to judge the Teen Town Square Dance Competitions and they will come back with many good ideas to help in furthering square dancing in Penticton. The advertising banners will be proudly displayed on their cars.

Come to the dance on Saturday night and see our own callers in action.

Valuable Rembrandts Up For Sale But Ownership Appears Confused

TIMMINS, Ont. (BUP) — Art dealers and connoisseurs from several cities converged on this Northern Ontario gold-mining town this weekend to examine and bid for two paintings reported to be valuable Rembrandts.

Richard Van Op Den Bosch, owner of the paintings, said he would accept any good price he was offered for the works of art that originally came from Holland.

Van Op Den Bosch said he had been assured by a Toronto art expert whose name he had mislaid that the paintings were genuine Rembrandts and "very valuable."

"I want to sell them so that my children can get a good education," the Belgian immigrant said.

However, he faced a possible struggle for possession of the paintings from his estranged wife, whom he married in Holland in 1946 while serving overseas in the Canadian Army.

Van Op Den Bosch said the paintings were given to them as a wedding present by his wife's family, who had held them for four generations.

The couple came to Canada in 1946 but the paintings remained in Holland until 1952, when his wife brought them here, after taking a trip home.

Van Op Den Bosch and his wife were separated in 1953 and he said "my wife now wants these paintings, but I am convinced they are mine to dispose of as the money will go toward the education of the children."

He has a 17-year-old son, Gerald, by a previous marriage, and a nine-year-old daughter, Grenda, by his second marriage to his Dutch wife.

Van Op Den Bosch said experts were coming to Timmins from Toronto and Winnipeg to examine the paintings this weekend. The numbers and initials on them correspond to those listed for paintings by the Dutch master in the Rembrandt catalogue.

One of the paintings shows Rembrandt's son, Titus, strumming a musical instrument, his head covered by a shawl. The other shows a colleague dressed in a large black hat with a white plume, with his neck in a white ruff collar common to men at the time.

Van Op Den Bosch added that he had already "received several good offers" but he wanted to sell the paintings to the highest bidder. He would not say how much he expected to get for them, but experts said any genuine Rembrandt would get thousands of dollars at any art gallery in the world.

Two Kamloops Men Injured In Fire

KAMLOOPS — (BUP) — Two Kamloops men are in hospital with severe burns after gasoline they were using to ignite a coal-oil lamp caught fire and burned their house yesterday.

John Madsen, about 35, and Wes Stevens, about 50, suffered the burns as they attempted to get out of their flaming house.

The men were apparently trying to light a coal-oil lamp in the dark. One of the men struck a match to light the gasoline but dropped it when it began to burn his fingers. The gasoline on the table ignited and in a few moments the floor was a mass of flames.

One of the men threw the blanket and got through the doorway, but with serious burns. Stevens was forced to grope his way out and was also severely burned. He is in critical condition in Kamloops Hospital, where Madsen is in fair condition.

City Couple Returns From Tour Abroad

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. M. Young returned to Pentiction yesterday following a tour abroad as members of the retired, CPR employees "House Party" which left Canada on March 20.

"It was a most wonderful trip and we enjoyed every moment of it but there is no place to compare with the Okanagan" were remarks by the happy travellers in commenting on their visit abroad, the first for Mrs. Young and the second for Mr. Young, a veteran of World War I.

One of the highlights of the tour for Mr. Young was his meeting with a former member of his company in the first war, Sir Beverley Baxter, MP, who took them to visit many centres of interest in London. They also visited the House of Parliament in session with him and saw Sir Anthony Eden.

The Pentictionites travelled abroad on the Empress of France and returned home on the Empress of Britain making a maiden voyage to Canada. They toured with the "House Party" in England and Scotland until April 2 when they reached London.

Leaving the group at this point they went to the continent to visit in Paris and Versailles before returning to London and their headquarters for the remainder of their stay in England.

En route home across Canada they visited briefly in Winnipeg with their son and daughter-in-law.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER JOHN CURTS

Bride Wore Heirloom As Jewellery Accent At Curts-Frost Ceremony

A lovely heirloom cross and necklace which have been in the groom's family for three generations were worn by Joy Ada Bernice Frost as jewellery accent to her pretty wedding ensemble when she became the bride of Walter John Curts of Salmon Arm at a double-ring ceremony in St. Ann's Roman Catholic Church on April 21. Rev. Father William Doherty officiated at the 10:30 a.m. rites for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Frost of this city and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Curts, Kelowna.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of net and lace designed in the Elizabethan mode with bouffant skirt slightly in train, and brief lace jacket. Her veil in chapel length was clasped by a pearl studded tiara. She carried red roses and white carnations in her bouquet.

A frock of yellow lace and net in ballerina length was worn by Miss Lois Frost as her sister's bridesmaid. Her net mittens matched her dress and she wore a hair circlet of yellow carnations to harmonize with her pretty bouquet.

Diane Hepton of Kelowna as flower girl was sweet in a yellow nylon frock over ermine with a mauve floral tiara and a basket of mauve flowers.

Billie Wardlaw of Kelowna was the small ring bearer. Gerald Parish, the bride's uncle, was best man. Her brother Jack Frost of this city and Lenard Erhardt of Kelowna ushered. Another uncle of the bride, Larry Schlosser of Kelowna, was wedding soloist with Mrs. Louis De-lacherois as organist.

A reception followed in the social room at the IOOF Hall where the blessing and toast to the bride were by Father Doherty. Larry Schlosser was master of ceremonies.

Those assisting in serving at the reception included Mrs. Lenora Hepton, Mrs. M. K. Paul, Mrs. Gordon Wardlaw, Mrs. F.

Shafer and Mrs. Gerald Parish. Miss Barbara Ashley was in charge of the bride's book.

Before leaving on their honeymoon in Seattle, the wedding bouquets were given to the principal's grandmothers, the bride's flowers to her grandmother, Mrs. Bernadette Schloster, and the bridesmaid's to the groom's grandmother, Mrs. M. A. Ashley.

The bride donned a light gray worsted suit with white accessories and red rose corsage for travelling to the States. The young couple will take up residence at Salmon Arm.

Among the out of town guests at the wedding were the groom's parents and his sister Miss Carol Curts; his grandmother, Mrs. Ashley, all of Kelowna; the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Schloster from Blainmore, Alberta; Mrs. John Clarke, Miss Barbara Ashley, both of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Curts, Oyama, and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Frost, New Westminster. Among those from Kelowna were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wardlaw and sons; Jim Wardlaw, Mr. and Mrs. F. Shafer, Mr. and Mrs. L. Schlosser, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jefferson, Chester Dillon, Mrs. L. Hepton and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. Roth, Mrs. Handlen, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Shutter, Mr. and Mrs. T. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John Hooper and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Selzer.

Guide And Brownie Ass'n Plans For Cookie Week And Other Current Projects

The regular monthly meeting of the local association of the Guides and Brownies was held in the Red Cross Centre on Thursday, April 26, with a good attendance.

Plans were finalized for the Annual Cookie Sales to be held on Saturday, May 5, when all Guides and Brownies in their uniforms will call from house to house with their cookies for sale. This year the cookies will be distributed from the homes of some of the Guides and Brownies in various vicinities throughout the city. Each Guide and Brownie will pick up her cookies from the home nearest her and sell them and turn the money back to that same home. In this way it is hoped that meeting time will not be taken up with the distribution of cookies and give the girls more time for their weekly activities.

Owing to the regular monthly meeting of the Old Age Pensioners held in the Legion, the representatives from the local association will not be serving tea to the senior citizens on the first of May.

The attendance plaque was won again by the 3rd Pentiction Brownie Pack, Mrs. J. L. Johnson, Brown Owl.

It was announced that Mrs. Alex Walton will succeed Mrs. E. A. Titchmarsh as district commissioner and will officially take over her duties at the end of June. Mrs. Walton has been Brown Owl for the 2nd Pentiction Pack for the past year.

Reports were given on the activities of Brownie Packs and it was related that all the girls were active in various projects and getting ready for tests for earning their badges.

Prior to the meeting, the canvassers for the United Appeal met and finalized plans for the campaign coming up in May. The local association members will be canvassing the West Bench. Mrs. W. H. Cooper is in charge of the canvassers and reported on the progress made to date.

A discussion was held on a testing day to be held at the end of May. There will be several Brownies from Pentiction, Summerland and Naramata taking their Golden Hand Test and Testers are needed to aid with this. Final plans will be announced at a later date.

A letter of thanks was received from the Children's Hospital in Vancouver for the cartons of clothing sent in March. This was an appeal sent out to the Guides and Brownies of the whole district by division commissioner Whitehouse of Allenby. The local association was responsible for the packing and mailing of the clothing.

Two new members were welcomed to the meeting and it is hoped that more new members will respond to the invitation at future meetings.

The meeting concluded with the serving of refreshments by Mrs. Scrivener, Mrs. Sutherland and Mrs. Gore.

Ninth Circle Joins Church Federation

A new group, the Ninth Circle, was officially welcomed to the Women's Federation of the Pentiction United Church at a meeting held last week at the home of Mrs. Ernest Rands under the sponsorship of the Wo-He-Lo Circle of the federation.

Owing to the increasing growth in membership in the eight circles forming the federation a decision was recently approved to organize another group. This was accomplished by the direction of Mrs. W. B. Morris and Mrs. Robert McMorland.

An executive of five was chosen to direct the affairs of the new group which will meet the third Wednesday of each month. Those elected to the executive were Mrs. R. W. Melkjohn, Mrs. J. E. Carey, Mrs. D. E. Forrester and Mrs. R. G. Bradshaw.

Prior to the choosing of the officers, Mrs. Rands and Mrs. J. Russell Jordan addressed those present; the former outlining the work of the Women's Federation, and Mrs. Jordan, explaining the activities and projects of the circles.

A pleasing social hour with entertainment and refreshments by members of the Wo-He-Lo Circle concluded the meeting.

Reports And Tea Plans At IODE Meeting

Discussion pertaining to the annual Violet Tea on May 12 in the Masonic Temple were foremost on the agenda at the monthly meeting of the Diamond Jubilee Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, on Tuesday in the Hotel Prince Charles. Convenor Mrs. H. E. Chalmers presented a report on the progress of arrangements while detailed reports were submitted by the various committees.

Following the reading of minutes and the introduction of Mrs. Fred Joplin as a new member, a minute silence was observed in memory of the late Mrs. Z. M. McGregor, honorary regent and organizer of the Diamond Jubilee Chapter.

Highlighting the meeting were the excellent and comprehensive reports on the recent annual meeting of the Provincial IODE at Vancouver submitted by regent Mrs. Kenneth Davenport and standard bearer Mrs. Howard Logan.

Speaker of the afternoon, former ICAF Group Captain E. C. Tennant of Naramata, after being introduced by Mrs. Davenport, outlined the activities of the Ground Observer Corps; stressing the urgent need for volunteers to give some of their spare time to spotting and reporting aircraft in co-operation with the RCAF Air Defence Command.

Silver Anniversary Celebrated By Peachland Couple

PEACHLAND — Mr. and Mrs. Neil Witt celebrated their silver wedding anniversary on April 26, receiving many beautiful gifts of silver, and a host of congratulatory messages all the way from Halifax to Vancouver.

Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Coleman arrived from Edmonton with a beautifully decorated, three tiered wedding cake, made by Mrs. Witt's sister, Mrs. Mulgrove of Veteran, Alta.

Included in the party were Mrs. F. E. Witt, Mr. and Mrs. Zeb Witt, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Merchant, Mr. and Mrs. W. Merchant of Coronation; Mrs. A. Kelowna Women Golfers Challenge Local Foursome

Four leading Kelowna women golfers have thrown down the gauntlet and will tee off here against four Penticton women tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. in what the Orchard City foursome hope will be a successful challenge for the Midland Rose Bowl Trophy.

The tournament, a four-ball, best-ball event, will be played at the Penticton Golf course.

Penticton has held the trophy since July, 1954, and successfully defended Kelowna's challenge five times since then.

Ageless Mosienko Warriors' Hero

WINNIPEG — (BUP) — Ageless Billy Mosienko, haunting Gerry McNeil like an oldtime nemesis, beat the Montreal Royals netminder with two spectacular goals last night to lead Winnipeg's freshman Warriors to a 3-1 victory and hockey's coveted Edinburgh Trophy.

VETERANS CLASH

The two veterans of National Hockey League competition clashed in principal roles as the Warriors swept to the highest Canadian honors in minor league professional ranks in their first year of play. A Winnipeg arena crowd of 10,072 roaring fans, an all-time record for Western-Canada, saw Mosienko emerge clearly as the victor.

The 34-year-old ex-Chicago Blackhawk forward scored his club's first and third goals, to boost his total for the series to six.

Paul Masnick, like McNeil, a former member of the Montreal Canadiens, got the other one, with stylish Walter Branny notching the lone goal for Montreal.

THRILLING CONTEST

The win in a free-wheeling, thrills-a-minute contest, gave the gruelling best-of-nine, Edinburgh series to coach Alf Pike's amazing Western League Champions by a 5-1 margin. They lost only the second game of the round to the Royals, reigning Quebec League titlists coached by former NHL great Elmer Lach.

The mightiest cheers were reserved for Mosienko. The fans roared for two minutes before he skated over to a microphone. When he could finally make himself heard, he told them that "things like this never happened to me in Chicago."

THE EDITOR, PENTICTON HERALD. Sir: I thought your readers might be interested in the enclosed photo of two sportsmen practicing for the annual Fish and Games' Club's Derby which opens this Sunday, Okanagan Lake. From the standpoint of sportsmanship, I object to the use of axes (which they are clearly using) to boat some of the bigger catches. And while Bert McFarland (left) and Des Haddleton (right) both vow the weapons were used in self defense, I trust and hope the Fish Derby committee will outlaw any such tactics opening day, Sunday, and throughout the month the derby runs.

—Sincerely, A Sportsman

Al Kenyon Heads Granite Club; Curlers Look Back On Successful Season And Plan Ahead

Al Kenyon will head the Penticton Granite club for the 1956-57 season. He was elected president at the well-attended annual meeting of curlers held at the rink, Wednesday night.

Vice-president is Harry Hines, the secretary will be appointed. Elected as directors for two years were, besides Mr. Kenyon, Jack McKay, Dr. Jack Day and Harry Hines. For one year, Cec Watson, Colin McGillivray, Ted Jackson and Pat Moen. Committee heads will be set up later.

Financial report showed a successful season's operation, with a net profit of $3,000 before depreciation. Enthusiasm for curling is shown by present membership count of 173 men and more than 100 women.

The "sweepstakes"spiel, held for the first time last season will be an annual event.

Bill Carse and his assistants were commended for their work in handling the rink for the last season and a recommendation was passed on to the incoming committee that they carry on.

All member curlers will be circularized before October 1 inquiring if members intend to take part in regular draws. This will forestall names of members being placed in draws which they will not be taking part in.

Indians Roll Up Impressive Wins In American Loop

NEW YORK — (BUP) — It was like 1954 all over again for Al Lopez today with the Cleveland Indians' fabulous "big three" operating in high gear.

Nobody could blame the popular Cleveland manager if he quipped: "That's right, the experts were wrong again."

INDIANS ROLLING

For the Indians are rolling with seven victories in their last eight games and it's not other than Mike Garcia, Bob Lemon and Early Wynn who are carrying the big pitching load.

Garcia, who had an 11-13 record last year in his only losing campaign in organized baseball, struck out seven batters and hurled a neat six-hitter last night as the Indians scored an easy 7-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

With Lemon's 2-1 record and Wynn's 3-0 slate, it gave the "big three" a composite 6-2 mark for the campaign.

MIGHTY HOMER

Jim Lemon's 475-foot, three-run homer enabled the Washington Senators to beat the Chicago White Sox 7-4.

Lemon's homer, which came off Billy Pierce with the score tied 4-4 in the seventh inning, hit two rows from the top of the left field bleachers — a wall which has been cleared only once in the 44-year history of Griffith Stadium.

Bob Chakales yielded three hits in 7 innings of relief pitching to gain credit for the win.

BUNS BEAT CARDS

Roy Campanella, Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo basted home runs in the third inning as the Brooklyn Dodgers downed the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-3.

Don Newcombe scored his third win of the year although he needed help from Clem Labine in the ninth.

Frank Sullivan pitched a six-hitter to give the Boston Red Sox a 5-2 win over Detroit and run his lifetime mark against the Tigers to 8-2.

Dick Gernert and Frank Malzone hit two-run homers for the Red Sox, who climbed back to the .500 mark with a 6-6 season's record.

Bob Friend's five-hitter and two-run homers by Frank Thomas and Dale Long enabled the Pittsburgh Pirates to beat the Cincinnati Redlegs, 5-1. The loss snapped the Redlegs' six game winning streak.

Home Town Rolls Out Carpet For Rocky Marciano

BROCKTON, Mass., (BUP) — Rocky Marciano got the red-carpet treatment yesterday from the citizens of his native city. Marciano retired as heavyweight champion last week.

Earlier, Marciano watched Detroit beat the Yankees in New York. During the game, manager Casey Stengel wise-crackingly asked Marciano — "Why don't you come out and try for a spot on our ball club? You see for yourself it will be easy to make."

The smiling Marciano replied — "I better think about it a little while." The former champion had built quite a baseball reputation around his home town before he turned to boxing. Marciano was a catcher.

Sacramento Sad Sacs In Catbird Seat

SEATTLE (UP) — The Sacramento Solons, rated as penguins in the pre-season estimates, were in the catbird seat in the Pacific Coast League today.

The supposedly Sad Sacs accomplished their minor league miracle by pinning back the wings of the high flying Seattle Rainiers for the second straight time last night and taking over their perch with a 5-2 victory.

The rest of the first division marked time as San Francisco split with Hollywood, losing 1-0 and then winning 7-6 in a couple of close ones and Los Angeles and Portland were rained out.

San Diego took a 6-0 lead, blew it and then got a run in the top of the ninth to win. Bob Usher and Ebba St. Claire homered for the winners, but it was a hit down the right field line by Earl Rapp in the ninth that was the winning blow.

Local Fighters Lose In Olympic Gloves But Put On Good Show

In the B.C. Olympic Gloves held last night at the Exhibition Gardens, Vancouver, fighters from the Penticton Boxing Club put on a great exhibition even though they failed to post a win, with the exception of Al Siebert who was declared winner in the 132 pound class, which was uncontested.

Hans Siebert lost to Harold Mann in the 139 pound event. Siebert was cut about the face in the second round.

Andy Arnold, 125-pounder, was defeated by Brian O'Hare after he was bothered by a cut eye which required three stitches.

Bob Peel, 178 pounds, fell before the fists of Hugh Melkie. He lost by a technical KO in the first.

There were 1,440 fans in attendance. "Even though the boys lost they accredited themselves nobly," Andy McGoldrich, trainer, said on his return here today. "After just one year the boys are showing a lot of fighting know-how."

RIFLE ASSOCIATION PLANS BIG YEAR ON BENCH RANGE

Members of the Penticton Rifle Association have oiled up their firearms for another season's activity has started at the rifle range located behind the West Bench.

Revolver and small bore practices are already underway and are being held each Sunday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. A week night, time and day, will be announced later.

RCMP Constable Art Weeks is range officer for revolvers, Emilio Amos for small bore rifles, Walt Cousins for large bore rifles.

RECOGNIZED BY A-G

Now that the association is recognized by the attorney-general's department, members may obtain permits to carry firearms to and from the range. To obtain these, Constable Weeks should be contacted, and anyone interested in taking part in the shoots should contact the constable, Mr. Amos or Mr. Cousins.

It is planned to keep track this year of all shoots for posting at the end of each month so that members may tell if their accuracy is improving.

PLAN OTHER EVENTS
If amount of enthusiasm justifies it, competitions will be planned with nearby clubs.

Also planned for this year will be placing of some butts for the large bore rifle range.

The association has leased 240 acres from the federal government in an ideal location where there are three plateaus at different heights to accommodate revolver, small bore and large bore shoots without any one interfering with the others.

Marlies Have Comfortable Lead Over Pats

TORONTO, (BUP) — Fourth game of the Memorial Cup final will be played here tonight with Toronto Marlies leading the best of seven series over Regina Pats 2-0 with one game tied. Fifth game is slated for Sunday.

Toronto took the third game on Wednesday by a score of 4-2.

Toronto Coach Turk Broda said he still isn't satisfied with the style of his team, "particularly as this Regina team is getting better every game."

Coach Murray Armstrong of the Pats said he will jettison his replacement players.

"The only game we won in last year's final against the Marlies was with our own players, without replacements," he said. "We'll try that again tonight."

SOCCER SUNDAY

Queen's Park Rangers play Vernon in a regular league soccer fixture here on Sunday commencing at 2 p.m.

The Rangers have played three games so far this season, winning one and tying two.

They have defeated Vernon, tied Kelowna and the Indian School.

JIM PURDUE

Little League players' agent is beating the bush for more coaches to handle the overflow teams starting their first year in the small fry baseball organization. Schedule gets under way May 23.

ST. LOUIS (UP) — Stan Musial, great St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, played his 2,000th major league game last night. He collected one hit in four tries.

STOCKING WOOD LAKE WITH BASS WOULD POSE PROBLEMS

A suggestion made recently that Wood Lake should be stocked with bass as a remedial measure to improve fishing, has brought a reply from G. E. Stringer, regional fisheries biologist of Kelowna.

Mr. Stringer points out that stocking bass in large lakes affects all areas in the Valley. His views are expressed in the following article:

Wood lake is an excellent trout lake having virtually all the requirements necessary to produce rapid growing fish. Contrary to some views, Kamloops trout do not thrive best in cold, clear, glacial water but rather in warmer waters where surface temperatures reach 65 degrees in summer as is the case in almost all the lakes throughout the interior.

There are a number of basic reasons why this is so which do not need belaboring here.

TOO MANY COARSE FISH

If Wood lake is an ideal trout lake, why is fishing poor? Certainly, everyone will agree that the reason is too many coarse fish. These undesirable types are prolific in reproduction and efficient feeders. Once they gain the upper hand, trout fishing slowly but surely deteriorates.

There are three possible methods of improvement. Stock a large number of yearling trout which we do not have the facilities to do; introduce a game fish capable of successfully competing with the coarse fish or poison. Smallmouth bass would be the logical choice for an introduction. This species is an excellent sport fish and is quite tasty. While it would have an adverse effect on trout fishing, the overall sport-fishing would be improved. Poisoning is impractical because of the cost and the fact that no suitable site exists for the construction of a barrier to keep other fish out.

PROBLEMS INVOLVED
While stocking Wood lake with bass has considerable merit, there are problems involved. It is virtually impossible to stock smallmouth bass in this lake without having them spread to Kalamalka, Swan, Okanagan and Skaha lakes as well. Screens could be placed between Wood and Kalamalka but they would clog with debris on the ice would tear them out allowing bass to escape. Certainly anyone would be foolhardy to guarantee that bass could be kept from spreading to the rest of the chain. The writer is not implying that bass would harm the other lakes for the same situation applies in that the overall catch of sport fish would improve though the catch of trout could be expected to decline somewhat.

FISH MOVE ABOUT
In general, Game Department personnel are neutral with respect to stocking bass in the lakes mentioned. At the same time we

Tory

by the minister in the house last night.

The letter was marked "personal and confidential," but McMahon released the letter for publication in a telegram to Howe yesterday in which McMahon also withdrew the offer.

Howe said the letter was a "private" communication "to me," and not addressed to the government. Therefore, he said, he could not regard it as an offer to the government, and since it was private he could not refer publicly even to the fact that he had received it.

The trade minister bristled at the accusation and declared: "I have never double-crossed anyone in my life."

"Why didn't you tell parliament?" he was pressed.

"Why didn't I tell parliament? Well, telling parliament is a great way to keep a thing private."

Howe said he was surprised at the idea of "morality" held by the Conservative front bench in the commons.

"They've got another Conservative horse that won't run," he said. Opposition leader George Drew said "if anyone was double-crossed," it was parliament in having been told there was no offer from McMahon, when Howe had one in his personal file.

Speaker Rene Beaudoin cited a rule of the house which he said indicated Howe's explanation was "perfectly good." Drew moved that a full-scale debate take place on the McMahon letters and the way Howe handled them, but Beaudoin said the motion presented by Drew was not the proper one for the case.

Man In Cockpit Nowhere Near Extinction Yet

MONTREAL (BUP) A widespread belief that most future airplanes will operate without pilots was discounted last night by Air Vice Marshal Max M. Hendrick, chief of air force technical services.

He said at the annual dinner of the Canadian Aeronautical Institute that man will not be replaced in the cockpit for "a long, long time."

Have Russians Got British Frogman?

LONDON (UP) — British newspapers speculated today British Frogman-hero Lionel (Buster) Crabbe may have been snooping around the Soviet cruiser Orjoniidze when he vanished into the murky depths of Portsmouth Harbor last month.

Adjournment In Langley Child Murder Case

LANGLEY — (BUP) — The Royal Canadian Mounted Police asked for an eight-day adjournment when Gerald Eaton, charged with the murder of a Langley girl, appeared in police court in Langley today.

The adjournment is to allow the police time to seek further evidence.

Eaton is charged with the murder of eight-year-old Carolynne Moore, a week ago. The child's battered body was found hidden in the woods, but the actual cause of death has not been revealed, nor has it been disclosed whether she was criminally assaulted.

Meanwhile, officials at Oakalla Prison Farm in Burnaby, said they had no reason to believe that anything would come out of threats made against Eaton by other inmates. They said the threats have been made mostly by young prisoners who have younger brothers and sisters.

However, special measures were taken to protect the 51-year-old ferry worker, who is himself the father of a teenage son.

It is estimated that the dog was domesticated about 3900 B.C.

I can sell you a car for no money down and small monthly payments, if you Phone 2862 and ask for Wally.

The burden of the speculation is that the Russians killed Crabbe, but the Conservative Daily Sketch said unidentified naval officers in Portsmouth believe they may have captured him and carried him off as a spy.

The mystery surrounding Crabbe's disappearance and probable death during the visit of Soviet Leaders Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev has created a furor here. The question will be brought up in parliament next week by questioners who want to know what proof the government has that the missing man is dead.

The former naval commander was last seen April 19 — The day the Orjoniidze arrived in Portsmouth — when he donned underwater gear and plunged into the harbor a few miles from where the Russian Cruiser was anchored.

The navy waited until the Arjikiidze and its passengers, Khrushchev and Bulganin, had left British waters before announcing last week that Crabbe was missing and presumed dead.

His body has not been recovered, and no official theory has been advanced to account for his disappearance.

The official announcement said the frogman was doing secret work for the government when he vanished, but gave no clue to its nature. A later naval announcement denied that his task would have taken him near the Orjoniidze.

A PLEASING CEREMONY took place this week when Eileen Bond, 424 Nelson avenue, won the top courtesy award as the result of votes cast during the past three months by Safeway customers. H. B. Crawford, public relations officer, Canadian Safeway Ltd., left, made the award. Shown also are Thomas Hagen, 52 West Bench, the runner-up in the contest and right, George Castledine, manager of Penticton Safeway. Similar competitions were held in other Interior Safeway Stores.

Radio - TV - Newspaper Monopolies Under Attack

BY KEITH DAVIDSON

British United Press Staff Correspondent

OTTAWA — (BUP) — The million-member Canadian Labor Congress today rapped radio-TV newspaper control in nine Canadian cities and urged the CBC to "enforce its own regulations."

The CLC also made these submissions in a 27-page brief, to the broadcasting royal commission.

1. The CBC should not change the fundamental principles of its "dominate and control" radio 25-year-old policy.

2. The CBC should continue to and television broadcasting.

3. Private stations should be maintained to provide local and community services as an ancillary to the national-owned system.

4. Private networks should not be authorized.

5. Newspaper-radio-television monopolies should be broken up.

6. Canadian talent should receive more encouragement.

7. Parliament should provide the CBC's capital requirements.

The brief said the CBC board of Governors "should establish its own enforcement branch charged with enforcing the board's regulations."

Such action would make it obvious that the board was the regulating and controlling body governing all broadcasting, the CLC said.

"Failure to do this in the past has allowed the notion to be fostered that the private stations are supporting the CBC," the brief said. "It is time that parliament and the public knew that the reverse is true."

The nine cities named in the section of the brief dealing with common radio-television-newspaper control were Kingston, Ont., Peterborough, Ont., Hamilton, Ont., Calgary, Alta., Regina, Sask., Saint John, N.B., Sherbrooke, Que., St. John's Nfld., and London, Ont.

"We think that the monopolies of this sort should not be allowed to develop," the brief said. "And where they have, they should be broken up."

It asked the commission to recommend that all such monopolies be broken up, and suggested that they be given three years to separate newspaper interests from radio and television.

The CLC said that foreign content of net works should not exceed 40 percent, and not more than 60 percent on single stations.

The congress highly praised the CBC for the general quality of its radio and television program, but criticized both the CBC and private stations on another count.

It said the stations had violated a policy on the use of recorded evening programs, thus depriving musicians of employment.

The CLC also proposed that the CBC receive a statutory grant of $3 per radio home and $15 per television set which would total about $1,526,000 and $21,732,025 respectively. The grant would be in addition to a small percentage of profits from the CBC's commercial resources.

Movie Of Buster Keaton's Life Is Not Glosed Over

HOLLYWOOD, (UP) — The movie life story of Buster Keaton will tell bluntly of his alcohol problem and his fall from the pinnacle of screen greatness.

Hollywood has stopped fooling the public with such fictionalized biographies as The Jolson Story. Now a celebrity's life tale is told with unhappy side, and thus the exciting drama, left in.

"The Buster Keaton Story" that begins shooting at Paramount next month, will be in the manner of "Love Me Or Leave Me" and "I'll Cry Tomorrow."

When Donald O'Connor combs his hair sideways and claps that famous Keaton flat straw skimmer on his head, he'll portray what producer Robert Smith calls "The Rise and Fall of Buster Keaton."

"The story will be true to his life, about the drinking, and his adjustment," O'Connor said today. "He never really found himself until after his great success."

O'Connor is screening all the great silent Keaton comedies so he can study that great comic artist. The younger entertainer also is practising Keaton flat-falls, from back flips to "ear-slides," that makes his role the most difficult of O'Connor's career.

Often Keaton joins O'Connor in producer Smith's office at Paramount and they hash over comedy "bits" that will be repeated in the picture.

Although he is 60, Keaton can do falls that startle the younger O'Connor. One day during the script conference Buster leaped to his feet and did a back somersault while holding a full cup of coffee in his hand. O'Connor is spilling a few cups to learn this trick.

O'Connor will wear a duplicate of Keaton's wardrobe when he goes into such famous Keaton routines as the stuck-together card dealing bit from "The Navigator". O'Connor also will repeat the wonderful gag in which Keaton stood in the prow of his little boat as it was launched. The boat grandly sailed down the skids, and just as grandly sank to the bottom. Only his famous pancake-thin hat was left floating on the water.

O'Connor fits neatly into the role because he always has been a lover of the silent screen and pantomime comedy. He did five such sketches for his television series. And it was his idea to put such veterans as Francis X. Bushman, Minta Durfee, Conrad Nagel and Blanche Sweet into "The Buster Keaton Story."

Vernon Festival Attracts 7,000

Spring and Festival time are synonymous and this week at Vernon the Valley Music Festival has attracted 2,500 entries to be heard in the remainder of this week and part of next week.

Miss Hilda Cryderman, president of the Vernon Branch of the Okanagan Valley Musical Festival said that the event will be attended by more than 7,000 persons.

There are a large number of Penticton entries.

Dr. Havelock Nelson and Dr. Leon Forrester from Britain and Miss Mara McBirney of Vancouver are adjudicating.

Yesterday afternoon six choirs from grades one and two in Vernon and Lumby schools were a highlight.

Equal Pay For Women Civil Servants In Ont.

TORONTO — (BUP) — Women civil servants of the Ontario provincial government have been granted full and equal rights to men employees.

Premier Leslie Frost announced yesterday that the women, at their own option, could assume permanent status that would make them eligible for pensions.

Frost said the move was taken to "correct action" taken in the depths of the depression of the 1930's, when male civil servants had demanded that women not be rated permanent employees as that would make them a threat to their jobs.

Historic Cariboo Trail Landmark Razed By Fire

70-MILE HOUSE (BUP) — One of the last original stopping-places and landmarks on the old Cariboo Trail in British Columbia burned to the ground this afternoon.

Known as the 70-Mile House, the building was erected in the early part of 1862 and for years served as a wayside house and favorite stopping-place on the Lillooet-to-the-north-stage lines.

The 70-Mile House, 70 miles northeast of Lillooet, was constructed chiefly of hand-hewn logs and the original logs remained in the building until it was razed by fire yesterday afternoon.

A faulty chimney was believed to have been the cause of the fire. The building was owned by Mrs. C. M. Porter, who purchased the landmark in May of 1922. Some of the rooms at 70-Mile House were rented to employees at a nearby planer mill. A few of the employees from the mill helped this afternoon to remove antique-like furniture from the burning house.

Canadian Fishermen Violate Boundary

ASHTABULA, Ohio (UP) — Three Canadian fishing tugs, accused of violating the international boundary flag in Lake Erie, were seized yesterday by Ohio authorities. One warning shot was fired at a tug which sought to escape.

William Farley, district supervisor for the Ohio Wildlife Division, said the arrests represented the largest catch of Canadian fishermen who edge over the international line to fish in American waters.

Seven tons of fish aboard the vessels were confiscated and will be distributed to welfare agencies. If the Canadians are found guilty,

One Man's Opinion

BY HOWARD PATTON

Penticton gets the lion's share of vacationers from Spokane and the "Inland Empire" who visit the interior of B.C.

Over 36,600 persons from this area visited Penticton in 1955. This was 51 percent of the families who took vacations. Only 2.3 percent of the total families got as far as Kamloops. Those visiting Vancouver made up 7.6 percent of "Inland Empire" holiday families. The only interior city to get more tourists than Penticton was Nelson, which received one-tenth of one percent, or 710 persons, more.

These statistics were prepared from a survey by one of the largest independent authorities in the USA, R. L. Polk & Co.

The "Inland Empire" covers eastern Washington, northern Idaho and western Montana. The results were outlined to the Board of Trade executive and hotel and motel operators by H. Dale Ure of the Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Why did these Americans come to Penticton? Almost 75 percent came for two related reasons: because they had been here before or on the recommendation of friends.

This fact certainly emphasizes the necessity of making a favorable impression on our visitors. As Mr. Ure said, "If the customer doesn't get what he wants he won't return and he gives the place a black eye because of the hundreds of people who come here."

Mr. Ure said, "I have talked to around home and in my travels," continued Mr. Ure, "they say they like B.C. because they like the people."

The other big factor in attracting tourists, besides personal experience and recommendation of friends, is advertising, the survey showed.

Most potent advertising influence is vacation folders, followed closely by newspaper advertising.

What do people want to do on their vacations? Among the top interests, listed in order of their popularity in the Polk survey are: sightseeing, visiting, resting, taking pictures, swimming and fishing.

That also helps to explain the popularity of Penticton, for our facilities and friendliness fit well the holiday aims of these vacationers.

Among a dozen other interesting points in the survey were the facts that almost 94 percent travelled by car and 50 percent went from 300 to 1,000 miles, spending from $100 to $500.

Penticton is out to increase its favored position with these Americans from the "Inland Empire" by again taking a half-page ad in the Spokane vacation supplement which has a circulation of 210,000.

And of course, it will be followed up as usual by the more important advertising of treating the visitors so well they will want to return and bring their friends.

Nine-In-One Drive Includes The B.C. Kinsmen's Polio Fund

Of every 100 polio victims diagnosed, an average of 14 have more or less severe paralytic involvement. It's a long way home from an iron lung but, through the Kinsmen's B.C. Polio Fund, hundreds of patients in this province have learned to adjust themselves and to carry on, once again, as home supporters.

Only a few years ago, one case in every ten was fatal but, thanks to medical advances, fatalities have been cut in half. The expensive long-term care doubles the financial load of the Polio Fund. Penticton citizens in giving to the annual "9 in 1" Penticton and District United Welfare Appeal will be helping the Polio Fund to continue restorative treatment for polio patients.

Usually there are about 70 patients at the Rehabilitation Centre undergoing treatment. The care given to polio sufferers in British Columbia has been cited as the best in Canada and second to none in the world. The Pearson Polio Pavilion in Vancouver is the only hospital in Canada set up solely for polio patients. Money bars no one. The expenses of those unable to pay, which includes about 99 percent of the patients, are paid by the Kinsmen Club sponsored fund which is included in Penticton's United Welfare Appeal.

A number of local citizens have been victims of this disease, among them are Rev. A. G. Stewart Liddell, minister of the First Baptist Church, and P. D. (Pat) Mulligan, unit manager of the Imperial Life Assurance Co.

Rev. Liddell was stricken with polio while on a vacation in August 1953, and within a day, his young son also had polio. Complete paralysis was experienced from the second week of August until the latter part of November of that year. Rev. Liddell's boy will be undergoing an operation this August on both legs and his thumb. The parents hope that normal movement can be fully restored.

It was just three years ago this month that Mr. Mulligan was laid up with polio for a year. Most of this year was spent in the Western Rehabilitation Centre in Vancouver. He said, "Through the efforts of the local Kinsmen, I was able to go to the Western Rehabilitation Centre which was started by Vancouver Kinsmen and a medical group. There I received treatment which has enabled me to return to a useful life. The Kinsmen's Polio Fund assists polio victims and contributes largely to the success of the Centre."

Eighty-five per cent of the polio patients in B.C. in 1955 were over 20. Salk vaccine will eventually immunize all the children, but the care of older sufferers will still be carried by the Polio Fund. The annual "give nine-in-one" drive of the Penticton and District United Welfare Appeal includes the B.C. Kinsmen's Polio Fund.

Colin McKenzie Head Of S'land Singers, Players

SUMMERLAND — Colin McKenzie was re-elected president of Summerland Singers' and Players' Club at a well-attended meeting in the Anglican parish hall on Tuesday evening.

Jack Stocks of Penticton was elected as vice-president.

A. K. Macleod was re-elected as treasurer and Mrs. Flora Bergstrom as secretary.

Stan Gladwell, past president, is an executive member, ex-officio.

The Penticton representative of the executive is Miss Margaret Johnston; Players' representative Mrs. Lorne Perry; and from the Singers' section, Mrs. K. L. Bothe.

The meeting discussed the advisability of auditions prior to performances, and decided to have tryouts for those new members interested in taking leading parts.

Subject of next year's production was talked over but no decision reached.

Recordings of "The Gondoliers" made by K. M. Stewart were played for members to hear, and were enjoyed.

A quartette composed of Mrs. Flora Bergstrom, Mrs. Pat McNulty, Jack and David Stocks, the last three from Penticton, delighted the meeting with selections.

Refreshments were served to conclude the evening's entertainment.

KINSMEN visiting the Rehabilitation Centre saw for themselves what the money raised through Penticton and District United Welfare Appeal would help to purchase. Paul Sharp, Penticton, Polio Care chairman for the Lower Okanagan Mainline, acts as guinea pig for vice-president Win Davis who demonstrates how pulleys help strengthen polio weakened legs.

Industrial First Aid Certificates To Be Given Wednesday

Workmen's Compensation Board and the Okanagan Federated Shippers' Association have arranged for a meeting in the cafeteria of the Senior High School, on Wednesday at 8 p.m., at which time 35 successful first aid attendants will receive their industrial first aid certificates, following the three-months course of instruction given by George Hallinan of Copper Mountain, under the sponsorship of the board and the federated shippers.

J. Eades, chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, is coming to Penticton on that date for the purpose of being present at the meeting to present these certificates.

Managers of packinghouses, canneries, sawmills, logging camps and any industry interested in promotion of instruction in first aid accident prevention and safety measures, are welcome to attend. Officials of St. John's Ambulance Association who have carried the burden of responsibility for first aid instruction in the past, have been invited to the meeting. Persons already holding industrial first aid certificates will also be welcome.

A. Francis, accident prevention official, and William Thompson, chief of first aid for the Workmen's Compensation Board, will attend the meeting and give short talks on the work of the board in their respective fields. Plans are being made for the showing of some recent films covering safety work in sawmill and logging operations.

F. E. Mottishaw, first aid inspector for Workmen's Compensation Board, advises that, in addition to 35 Kelowna pupils who were successful, there were 25 in the Penticton area and 38 in the Vernon area. Some of the pupils who took their instruction at Penticton came from as far as Keremeos, Cawston and Hedley. Pupils in the Vernon classes came from Lumby, Falkland, Enderby and Armstrong, as well as Vernon. Mr. Mottishaw reports that this is the largest number of pupils ever to attend a course of instruction in this work in the Okanagan Valley, and he further states that the calibre of the students has been exceptionally high.

Successful Authors Are To Teach At UBC Summer School

Three successful authors will give instruction at Western Canada's most extensive summer school of creative writing at the University of B.C., July 3 to August 17.

Melvin W. La Follette, lecturer in English at UBC, is the director of the school; Lister Sinclair, UBC graduate and distinguished Canadian author and critic, will be the principal lecturer and James B. Hall, assistant professor of English, University of Oregon, will be the special lecturer.

Four workshops and three seminars will emphasize Fiction Writing, Playwriting and Poetry Writing. Lectures in basic Creative Writing will also be offered, both for credit and non-credit students.

In a period of ten years the CBC has performed more than 30 of Lister Sinclair's plays. He has written for the legitimate stage and TV as well as for radio, and is a popular actor, performer and lecturer. He will conduct the basic creative writing course and the play writing seminar and workshop.

Dr. Hall, who has taught writing at Iowa, Cornell University and Women's College, North Carolina, has had his stories published in Harper's Bazaar, Western Review, and in the O. Henry and Martha Foley short story collections. He published his first novel "Not by the Door" in 1954. Dr. Hall will instruct in the fiction writing workshops and seminars.

Mr. La Follette won the New Poets of the Midwest Award in 1954, the same year that he joined the UBC staff. His poetry and criticism has appeared in numerous periodicals both sides of the Atlantic: the New Yorker, Time and Tide, New World Writing and others. Mr. La Follette will conduct the poetry writing workshop and the art of poetry seminar.

Admission will be on a competitive basis for both credit and non-credit students, and enrollment will be limited in both cases. Candidates must submit a representative sample of their writing to The Director, Summer School of Creative Writing, c/o Dept. of English, University of B.C., Vancouver, before June 1.

PEACHLAND NOTES

Councillor F. Ivor Jackson has just returned from a five-day course of lectures on Community Planning held on the campus of the University of British Columbia, under the auspices of the Extension Department of UBC in co-operation with the Community Planning Association of Canada, (B.C. Division).

Mr. Jackson reports that the course was attended by 17 people from all parts of British Columbia; three, being members of municipal councils and village commissioners and the rest, members of municipal staffs.

In addition to Peachland, the Okanagan municipalities of Kelowna, Summerland and Penticton had sent people to attend the course and Mr. Jackson looks forward to the early setting up of a Regional Planning Board for the Okanagan Valley to advise and assist the municipalities and help to integrate the development of this area.

The regular meeting of the Municipal Council was held on April 26, when the budget came up for discussion. The 1956 mill rate will be the same as in 1955, 34 mills. The school mill rate is slightly up over last year and the council had to reduce the rate for general purpose to hold the 34 mill line. Library costs have gone up and are now levied at 90 cents per capita.

The paving of Princeton Avenue will be completed to the top of the hill this summer.
A new road is being constructed from the Trautman-Garraway mill to the W. Elmer property.
This road will be well drained, with gradual turns and a maximum eight per cent grade, to take care of the increasing all-year traffic.

A quantity of timber is being sold to A. W. Garraway and C.
Topham on a stumpage basis.
A piece of equipment in the form of a pipe detector has been purchased by the municipality for locating service pipes. With this piece of equipment it will be possible to trace the exact position as well as the depth of a pipeline.

At the next meeting of the Okanagan Valley Municipal Association, Peachland will present a resolution pressing for the removal of Clause 25a from the standard B.C. Power Commission Contract, which gives the commission the right to order, without prior notice, that any or all of the customer's equipment be disconnected because the commission is low on power. On the other hand, the customer must agree to accept and pay for power as soon as it is reconnected. The council feels that Clause 25a of the commission adequate protection. Clause 25 states that the commission could not be held responsible for failure beyond their control, and agrees to resume service as soon as reasonably possible.

Herbert Coleman has just graduated from the University of Edmonton, where he received his B.A. in psychology. He and his wife came to attend the 25th wedding anniversary on April 26, of Mrs. Coleman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nell Witt, before proceeding to Vancouver for the summer. In the fall they will leave for Berkeley, California, where Mr. Coleman will study for his master's degree.

Miss Doreen Clements and Bud Slamey returned to Vancouver on Sunday after spending the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
W. E. Clements. They were accompanied by Ralph Bradbury, who will be working in Vancouver for the summer.

The home cooking sale sponsored by St. Margaret's W.A. on April 27 was a great success and the proceeds are to go to the Theological College, Vancouver.

Voting for the May Queen, for the May 21 celebrations, took place on Saturday, April 28. From the five candidates running, Le-ana Welby was elected May Queen, and Donna Archibald, princess.

The Variety concert, sponsored by the Junior W.A. to the United Church, and held in the Athletic Hall on April 27, was a great success financially, as well as providing entertainment for the large audience. Some very outstanding numbers were heard and appreciated and the fashion show with men as models, caused a great deal of amusement and applause. All participants were served with light refreshments in the newly renovated basement of the United Church, following the concert.

Entering the 30th Annual Okanagan Musical Festival in Vernon, May 3-9, are three young ladies from this district: Joan Topham has entered the Grade 111 ballet and sword dancing competition. Twelve-year-old Doreen Tuffie has entered the under 15 years class in piano and the folk songs for those under 16 years, and Dianne Ruffie in piano and under 14 years and folk songs under 12 years. Mr. and Mrs. A. Ruffie will take their daughters to Vernon.

Mrs. Ethel Young is leaving for Grant's Pass, Oregon, on Friday for two months' holiday with her daughter-in-law Mrs. Bobbie Dahlgren.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Johnston have, as their guests their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. Johnston and daughter of Lacombe, Alta.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodison and Leslie of Kelowna were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F.
C. Bradley at the weekend.

Margaret Domi was home from Penticton for the weekend and will be leaving shortly for Victoria to complete her studies at Normal School. Harold Domi was home also, from Summerland.

Vic Winegar was visiting Don Cousins for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Blessin (nee Katie Seims) of Vancouver are being congratulated on the birth of a son.

The full extent of the frost damage in this district is becoming more apparent daily and the overall picture is not very good.
It seems that Peachland has been harder hit, in many cases, than other districts in the valley and definitely much worse than in 1949-50. The upper benches have suffered the most in cherries, peaches and late apples hardest with many trees dead. A number of growers are carrying out bridge-grafting programs, in the hope of saving some of the trees.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs.
J. Richard were Mr. and Mrs.
Cheeseman of Okanagan Centre.

C. T. Redstone is a patient in the Kelowna General Hospital.

Mrs. C. C. Inglis has returned home from the Kelowna General Hospital.

W. Suddaby, a former resident of Peachland and brother-in-law of Thomas McLaughlin Sr., died in Vancouver on April 25. Mr.
Suddaby was in the district from 1921 to 1927. He has been living in Vancouver since that date. He is survived by his wife Byna, two brothers, Ernest and Howard of Levey, Alta., one sister, Mrs. Burkholder, of Edmonton.
Funeral services were held April 30 in Vancouver.

These multi-colored new cars look very nice when clean but why hasn't some auto manufacturer come up with a surfacing material which will keep them that way and not become be-grimmed by road splash?

Water Rids Room Of Paint Odor

Never apply paint to any surface that is the least bit damp, to insure a perfect job... Several buckets of water, allowed to stand in a newly-painted room, will help rid it of paint odor.

If you plan to paint a basement or other concrete floor—you'll find it a much easier task—and obtain good results—if you use a cellulose mop instead of a paint brush.

BRING DAYLIGHT TO CELLAR

Modern glass block can solve the difficulty of providing daylight for the basement or crawl space without the attendant problems of breakage, frame rotting or condensation damage which afflict ordinary window sash. At top, a conventional basement window has been replaced by a sturdy, attractive glass block panel. In the center, a similar panel is used where a well brings the window opening below ground level. If the drain in the well clogs, the solid glass block will effectively prevent entry of water into the basement. At the bottom, glass block are used to daylight crawl space beneath the house—a definite advantage when repairs are necessary under the house. Glass block is modular and fits with any type of foundation or construction.

COLORFUL ACCESSORIES

Spruce-up for spring with new accessories for your home. Beautiful new decorative items introduced at the china, glass and gift market in the Merchandise Mart, Chicago, will soon be hitting the retail stores and you will find an abundant supply for both your own home and for glamorous wedding gifts.

You'll see the soft gleam of silver-toned metals everywhere. Blending in with the silver-toned touch on furniture—in drawer pulls and trim, the silver touch may be found in the greater number of stainless steel, chrome, nickel or aluminum service pieces, more platinum banded china and glass, whole new lines of silver and new pewter items.

Despite the newness of silver, it is still outweighed by the number of brass and copper pieces. The two metals are combined in many of the newest items. One chafing dish ensemble, for example, is made either of stainless steel and copper or stainless steel and chrome. It is convertible for other uses. The stainless steel base is an all purpose tray, the hot water dish doubles as a salad bowl and the copper or chrome food bowl with its long wood handle may be used to pass foods, hot or cold. A handsome cast aluminum chafing dish is a copy of an old Sheffield silver piece.

A striking example of the increasing use of color in combination with metals is a group of casserole and candle-warmer pieces made of fine, brushed aluminum with accents of turquoise blue. Stands are aluminum; dishes are blue-spattered pyrex glass; covers are aluminum with insets of fired-on blue enamel. Edges of fired-on blue enamel; handles are wood enameled blue.

Included in this group is an electric warmer containing three two-quart casseroles. A series of black or white hanging, iron-wire planters in a variety of well-designed shapes contain flower bowls of brightly painted metal. By owning several of the flower bowls, a homemaker can change her color scheme for different occasions.

Anodized aluminum has gone elegant and "different"—like the pitchers and bases of muted bronze-brown designed by an Italian architect, and the pieces with gold or silver polka dots on black aluminum from England.

A piece of rubber stair tread or inner tube between the base of your metal vise and the bench top will dampen noise when the vise is used to hold work for filing or sawing. It has a tendency, too, to hold the vise firmly under strain that might otherwise loosen its fastenings.

Greater Strength When Concrete Allowed To Cure

DO... consider the curing of concrete (i.e. slowing down of the drying process) as vital to the ultimate strength, durability and water resistance of the finished project.

DO... if at all possible, cure concrete while the temperature is between 70 and 80 degrees, although satisfactory results can be obtained at higher and lower temperatures.

DO... when newly-placed concrete is exposed to sun or wind, protect it with wet canvas, burlap, sand or straw—but first wait until there is a very slight hardening so the surface won't be marred.

DO... sprinkle the cover a couple of times a day at the least for about a week.

DO... when concrete is not exposed to sun or wind (and cover is not used), wet down the surface about an hour after completing the job and a couple of times a day for several days.

DON'T... place concrete if there is any possibility of freezing weather during the first 48 hours.

DON'T... remove wooden forms from small projects for at least two days in warm weather and for at least six days in colder weather.

DON'T... remove wooden forms from large projects for at least seven days in warm weather and for at least 14 days in colder weather.

DON'T... forget that neglecting the principles of curing will cause dusting, checking and cracking as well as reducing the water resistance of the concrete.

Solves Problem Of Screen Door Handle

A housewife got tired of running to the back of the house to open the screen door for her young boy.

She had her husband take off the screen door handle and lower it on the frame. That made it fine for the boy; he was able to reach the handle. But it made it uncomfortable for the adults, who had to bend down to take hold of the handle.

They finally solved it this way. The original handle was taken off the door and replaced with a towel bar, turned sideways. The handle thus was low enough for the youngster and high enough for the adults.

Use Concrete Blocks For That Patio Fireplace

Cottage Ready For Vacation?

Vacation-minded people are getting busy perking up the summer retreat so that when the time comes to move in everything will be in order.

If the cottage hasn't been chosen so it as soon as possible so it may be put in apple-pie order and reek of comfort when you move in. If you find one with a nice view and perhaps a lake or stream to dot its magic, don't pass it up because there is work to be done. Simple repairs, a bucket of suds and variety store accessories with little expense and effort can go a long way to putting the vacation cottage in the cozy bracket.

The idea is to do a good cleaning job first, then stand back and survey remaining drabness. Here are some pointers that might be helpful in organizing your retreat:

1. Do a thorough soap and water cleaning first. Clean windows, floors, walls and table surfaces with a good stiff brush and plenty of soapsuds.
2. Clean upholstery and other dust catchers with the vacuum cleaner.
3. If there are no window curtains or draperies get plastic or paper curtains that may be suds-swabbed clean. Or use sheets, by fastening clips to the tops through which you can slide a rod. The sheets may be kept bright-white all summer just by tossing them in the laundry. Or use colored sheets if you have them and they harmonize with the room decor.

4. Use self-adhesive plastic to cover shelves, cabinets, wall areas over sink, stained table tops and bookcases.

5. Plastic waste paper baskets are ideal for refuse, may be used at home later.

6. Plants go a long way to creating cheerful atmosphere. Geraniums are especially effective at the end of summer.

7. If the floors are bare, don't despair. They may be kept clean and cool by occasional scrubbing. A few area rugs from home may dress them.

8. Drab furniture may be covered with old sheets, bedspreads or shower curtains. But don't make it a hodge-podge. Pick out the worst piece or two of the lot to cover and let it go at that.

9. Plan to keep a big bunch of rhododendron or other greens in a floor receptacle all summer. Cover a big ice cream or lard can with plastic adhesive and use it as the container.

10. If there aren't enough don't worry; summer days are long and candles can fill the bill until bedtime.

Our ancestors cooked indoors over a wood fire at the hearth. Progress brought gas and electricity to replace it.

With the kitchen completely modernized, man then moved outdoors and built a backyard fireplace so he could cook over a wood fire.

The result of this circular inventiveness is called gracious living.

Gracious livers who are also do-it-yourselfers will find concrete block a convenient material for erecting patio fireplaces.

Concrete block withstands the degree of heat reached by a small cooking fire. Besides the regular 8 by 8 inch by 16 inch size blocks are available in many special shapes and sizes to eliminate most cutting.

Concrete block is made in two weights, dense and light. Dense block is standard and cheaper, and therefore would be used in any project where the 40 to 45-pound weight of an 8 by 8 by 16 block would not be a difficulty.

Dry ready mix mortar can be purchased. All you have to do is add water.

A backyard fireplace should be located at least 20 feet away from any building which might interfere with the draft of the chimney. You also want to be sure that the prevailing winds won't blow the smoke in anyone's window.

A tall tree wouldn't interfere with the chimney draft but a hedge about the same height as the chimney would.

If necessary, trim the hedge or add a couple more blocks to the chimney.

To make a small fireplace, begin by excavating for a concrete slab on which to rest it.

If reinforced with wire mesh a four-inch slab will do. Outline the slab with a wood form and pour the concrete onto the ground.

Make the top of the forms level, then when you screen off the concrete with a long board, the slab will be level, too.

After the slab has cured, the first course of block is laid in a full bed of mortar. Joints made 3/8 of an inch thick.

Concrete block construction is worked out in multiples of 8 and 16 inches; actually, standard blocks are slightly undersize to allow for the mortar joints.

Use your level on every block to be sure it is set plumb and square. You can hold the level on the block while you tap, the block into place with your trowel handle.

Except for the underside of the bottom course, only the face edges of the block are buttered with mortar.

Excess mortar squeezed out of a joint by the weight of the block is troweled off at once.

Atop the first course of block is laid a grate about 30 by 18 inches. Ends of the grate that rest on the block are covered with mortar and become part of the joint.

Similarly, a cooking grill rides on the second course and an iron plate on the third.

After laying the third course, chisel a hole about five inches square into the third block in the chimney stack. This will allow the smoke from the fire to rise through the cores of the chimney blocks.

The final course of half-thickness block gives the fireplace a finished look.

It's a very good idea to put a piece of metal mesh across the top of the chimney to catch sparks.

The fireplace described is a small one, but anyone who has not worked with masonry before should practice some before tackling a truly ambitious outdoor kitchen.

For a larger fireplace, the list of materials might include a manufactured metal barbecue stove unit, reinforcing rods and firebrick.

The Garden Gate

CANADIAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN

George F. Wilcox of Oliver, who is a member of the Canadian Association of Nurserymen, wants to draw attention to the fact that this association together with the Better Business Bureau is working in a number of ways.

For instance, this spring they are endeavoring to let the public know that there are still nursery firms that put out false and misleading advertising. These firms are usually very easy to recognize, they say, as they make promises that common sense tells they cannot fulfill, and make the required profit to stay in business.

The Canadian Association of Nurserymen say, "If you get a bargain, someone else has to pay for it." The CAN does not like this method of doing business and is trying to discourage it.

Mr. Wilcox advises those interested in gardening to deal with the firms that display the Nurserymen's Maple Leaf crest.

Building Queries

Question: I recently bought a book on wood finishing. At several points in the book, mention is made of wetting down the wood before sandpapering but no reason is given for this operation. Can you tell me why the writer suggests wetting the wood?

Answer: The water raises the grain of the wood, and when this raised grain is sanded off, an extra smooth finish results. With some kinds of wood, the procedure is unnecessary. If you do any sanding of that type, be sure to use waterproof sandpaper.

Question: We have an automatic pop-up toaster which has been operating perfectly until recently. It has an adjusting knob on the front to control the desired color of the toast. A few weeks ago the bread began popping up before it was well done. We adjusted the knob and it worked for a while, but now it doesn't pop up until the bread is almost burned. Can you tell us what the trouble is?

Answer: It sounds as though the timing mechanism is out of kilter and requires professional readjustment. However, there is one other possibility. Different types of bread require shorter, or longer periods of time to reach a well-done stage. Are you switching back and forth between different types of bread?

Lawn spreaders used for applying grass seed, fertilizer, etc., should be loaded no more than half full of any material that tends to pack. Ground limestone is such a material.

Pot lids, cookie sheets, and trays store in a space-saving, upright position with the help of a towel rack, attached to the side of the interior of a deep kitchen cabinet.

What's That Noise In My Automobile?

Cars are like people. When their innards are in good shape, they hum along. But when something ails them they may whine, wheeze, snarl or just quietly give up the ghost.

Your car engine, when percolating properly, has a smooth rhythm of its own and any unfamiliar sound may mean trouble is brewing.

A missing cylinder may mean a bad spark plug or ignition trouble; a heavy click-clicking usually indicates valve or tappet trouble; and grinding or growling usually means serious trouble in the transmission or rear axle.

Most older cars have small rattles and squeaks that have nothing to do with the efficiency of the car's motor. But if you have any doubts as to the source of a new noise remember that an early trip to a service station can prevent costly repair bills later on.

If this is your first gardening season, make a scale garden plan. Then make notes to show you next year how well or poorly plants did in locations.

FRESH PAINT Helps Trolls

Fresh paint will improve the appearance of the garden trellis or arbor and give it longer resistance to weathering.

Take time to get the old surface in proper condition.

Use sandpaper to remove any of the old paint that is scaling or blistered. Fill cracks where moisture could collect with plastic wood.

If nails are loose because of a combination of rust and rot, remove the holes and fill them with plastic wood.

Many plants and root stocks shipped by mail are treated protectively so they do not dry out and die. Read carefully all instruction material supplied and follow directions carefully. If bare-rooted material arrives and cannot be planted for several days, it should be placed in water or heeled into the ground until it can be set in permanent position.

Gold-Plated Can Opener Costs $99

Gold-plated objects are not uncommon, but a gold-plated can opener...?

That's one of the newest "conversation piece" items for the home, which will soon appear on the market. It doesn't do anything but open cans and sells for $99.95.

Another item you can be sure you won't find in every home is an ottoman that looks as if it were built for a giant. It's a huge, four-foot square, muslin-covered piece of furniture with mahogany legs that can seat eight normal-sized people. The price tag reads $450.

Sigmund Freud's Birthday Sunday: Great But Troublesome Scientist

NEW YORK, (UP)—The hubbub over the 100th anniversary of the birth of Sigmund Freud which falls next Sunday, is because he was one of the greatest scientists who ever lived, but also one of the most troublesome.

Great because he discovered basic truths concerning the human mind which are indispensable in man's age-old urge and need to understand himself. Troublesome because some of his findings seem to challenge the most cherished beliefs of the race.

In this he is comparable to Charles Darwin whose theory of evolution challenged the Genesis story of creation, and to Nicolaus Copernicus and Galileo Galilei whose theories and discoveries challenged the then prevailing belief that man's earth was the key of the universe.

The furthest extensions of Freudian mind-science hold that God was created by man out of man's intense need, rather than man being a creation of God. These extensions deny that man is endowed with free will with which to choose between good and evil.

Freudian mind-science in toto is, therefore, utterly incompatible with dogmatic Christianity and with most religions.

It also is utterly incompatible with beliefs held commonly by people for which no divine origin or authority is advanced.

For example, it denies the reality of romantic love — indeed, of romance of any kind. All such phenomena, it maintains, including "inspiration," "genius," "intuition," and "goodness" and "badness" are the results of specific although hidden mental processes. Nothing in the way of a mental activity ever "just happened." Every thought, every whim, every dream, every attitude, every memory has a cause.

Freudian mind-science thus has unparalleled power to enrage, outrage, flabbergast, and trouble men and women of whatever background and education, including scientists, although this power now is nothing to what it used to be. But there are many scientists who deny it is even a science because none of it can be manipulated and proved in a strictly physical way.

It has many opponents and critics. Nevertheless, it has permeated the whole of our living, and in a mere matter of a little over half a century, Freud himself has been dead only since 1939. If you took Freudian concepts out of the medical science of psychiatry there would be little left, and Freudism looms large in the science of psychology.

One of the most annoying things about it, if you wish to reject it, is that it is impossible to reject it in its entirety because so many of its theoretical meanings can be confirmed in yourself. Recently the National Academy of Religion and Mental Health was founded by leading clergymen of all faiths, psychiatrists, and psychologists for the purpose of reconciling religion and psychiatry. By "psychiatry" Freudism was meant.

Just about everyone now knows there is an "unconscious" and very trivial acts can have deep mental meanings. "Complex" and "ego" are parts of the common speech. "Spare the rod and spoil the child" no longer is an accepted way of bringing up children.

This reporter is neither promoting nor attacking Freudian mind-science. He is reporting what that science is because there is much confusion. Its fundamental is the existence of a hidden part of the mind, anyone's mind, which is called "the unconscious." By "unconscious" is meant precisely that. But this "unconscious" mind can and does influence the conscious mind and so, conscious behavior, without the conscious mind ever knowing it. Furthermore, the unconscious is active, that is "dynamic."

Daily, the board will register the reports from each operation, to show in graphic figures how the week-long campaign is progressing. At the outset, participating operations will hoist a green-and-white banner over their headquarters as long as the operation remains free of compensable accident, that flag stays up. If an accident is experienced, it must be hauled down.

Purpose of the campaign is not merely to try to work one full week without accidents, even though that would mean a record of nearly 2½ million man-hours accident-free — it is to bring solidly home to every member of the forest products working force, from company president to watchman, the fact that accidents can be prevented, that cost in terms of lost production, unnecessary pain and suffering, lost working time and lost wages is a cost which can be drastically reduced. The safe working practices encouraged by a week-long campaign have proved in the past to develop firmly and to continue for weeks afterwards. Some have clung all year long, and every year a few more do so. In addition, the build-up to the campaign before it actually opens helps to condition every member of the forest industrial "army" into readiness for the job of preventing accidents.

This year, with the biggest campaign ever and the most complete participation ever, the unique readiness report starts the second phase — the campaign itself. The Joint Committee for Forest Products Safety Week challenges every manager, every worker — "Are YOU ready?"

Accident Free Week In Forest Industry Is Sought To Mark Forest Products Safety Week

VANCOUVER — "Ready for Action!" That report, in various forms, will come winging to Forest Products Safety Week headquarters here by tonight, as forest industry operation all across British Columbia turn in their readiness reports before the start of the campaign with the first shifts to go to work Monday, May 7.

The unique readiness report system, never before used in the province, will advise Safety Week leaders of last-minute needs for local accident-prevention campaigns, and will put each participating operation on the "Safety Scoreboard" now being erected in campaign headquarters. A second big scoreboard is being built and erected in Prince George for the special score of northern operations.

Daily, the board will register the reports from each operation, to show in graphic figures how the week-long campaign is progressing. At the outset, participating operations will hoist a green-and-white banner over their headquarters as long as the operation remains free of compensable accident, that flag stays up. EYE PROTECTION is one of many essential details emphasized all year long in British Columbia forest products operations. In this mill scene, "fallsawyers" on the offshore side of the main saw are wearing plastic face protectors to keep flying splinters out of their eyes. They are ready for Forest Products Safety Week, May 7 to 11.

KEREMEOS NOTES

There was a very small turnout at the quarterly meeting of the South Similkameen Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society to receive the brief but interesting report of the annual meeting in Vancouver, submitted by the unit's delegate, Mrs. Tony Affleck, who dealt comprehensively with the various phases of the society's activities. The president, Mrs. L. Gemmel, reported that the current canvass was well under way, mentioning particularly the fact that a number of the canvassers were young ladies, which is most encouraging.

Mrs. T. Wesley Kitchen and son, Michael, of Ocean Falls, arrived on Tuesday for a visit with Mrs. Kitchen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. East.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cornett and Mrs. Cornett's mother, Mrs. Vipond of Vancouver arrived last week to live here. Mr. and Mrs. Cornett are parents of Mrs. George J. Armstrong.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lodge are guests at the Similkameen Auto Court. Mr. Lodge has accepted the post as accountant with the Keremeos Cooperative Growers until such time as a permanent bookkeeper is appointed. Mr. Lodge comes from Creston and both he and Mrs. Lodge are well known here. Mr. Lodge having been accountant with Keremeos Fruits, Ltd., for sometime.

Hugh Warrender, accountant of the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce left recently for the 100-Mile House, Cariboo Branch of the bank. Robert D. Kulash of Creston comes from the Kelowna Branch to replace Mr. Warrender.

Parents and friends of those taking part were guests at the révé of the ballet pupils of Miss Margaret Longridge on Saturday evening. The tiny tots participating in "Little White Duck", a delightful pantomime, were dressed in pastels; the following took part: Trina, Marie, Lawley, Little White Duck, Beekie, Wilson, Green, Pegg, Linda Hill, Ruth Sanku, Janet Ritchie, Black Bug, Cathie Ritchie and Susan Wilson, Little Lily Pads.

Those taking part in the pretty interpretation of "Waltz Studi-antina" wearing dainty pastel frocks were Carol Knott, Danie Hill, Margaret Fowtrel, Susan Fowtrel, Heather Blakemore and Susan Menell. The tight-fitting costumes for "Dance Macabre" were of black material, lending the desired effect as the following older girls performed: Shirley Trigg, Joan Manery, Shirley Eriksen, Rose Critchlow, Nancy Willis, Cheryl Mackenzie, Judy Johnson, Frieda Anderson, Carol Robinson and Sharon Scheutze. At the close of the attractive program, which was heartily applauded by an enthusiastic audience, Miss Longridge delighted the guests with a graceful interpretation of Valse Noire, Susan Wilson presented Miss Longridge with a gift of appreciation from her pupils in ballet.

First aid kits may help to save a life. They should be part of the equipment of every home, office, store, camp and cottage. A book of first aid instructions will help in case of emergency or, better still, there should be a trained first aider in the family or staff.

Bridesville Notes

On Sunday, April 16, the Catholic Church of Bridesville was honored by the visit of Bishop T. J. McCarthy of Nelson, who conferred confirmation on Sally Greshner, Letitia Schorn, Connie Spooner, Leslie Lawless, Michael Schorn and Gary Spooner. Miss Darlene DeWitte brought in the gifts, which were housed in a miniature church. The "church" was made by Mrs. Agnes White and carried out the mauve, yellow and white color scheme. Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. O. C. Hanson, Mrs. H. Marriott, Mrs. M. DeWitte and Mrs. M. Hanson, while Miss Joy Nelson, Miss Anna May Bourgh, and Miss Rita Bourgh acted as servers.

There have been three attempts at a work bee on the school grounds with a poor response. The P.T.A. would appreciate having anyone who can spare the time bringing a hammer, saw, or whatever is considered necessary to see if the rink can be prepared for basketball, there will be some playground equipment to install in the near future, too.

Most people are exposed to tuberculosis germs without knowing it. However, thanks to normal good health, their degree of resistance protects them from contracting the disease. Periodic chest x-rays will help to prevent any establishment of TB, by allowing discovery and treatment while the disease is in its earliest and most curable stage.

Dawson City's Mayor Derides Bennett's Offer

DAWSON CITY, Yukon Territory, (BUP) — British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett's offer to accept the Yukon Territory into British Columbia's boundaries has drawn derision from Dawson City's Mayor M. J. Comandina.

Bennett offered to build the Pacific Great Eastern Railway into Whitehorse and extend B.C. hospital insurance and other services to the area.

In a telegram sent to a Vancouver newspaper Comandina said "Bennett should know that Dawson is in the Yukon so why extend the PGE to Dawson. How long did it take B.C. to finish the PGE 80 miles from Quesnel to Prince George. At the same rate it would take 100 years to get to Whitehorse. There is no such thing as free hospital care. We have a voluntary health system way ahead of the B.C. system."

"Our social assistance to pensioners is more than B.C.'s as well as social assistance in other ways. We have a per capita grant and special municipal aid to enable us to operate Dawson without going into debt."

"Furthermore we are not plagued with a five per cent sales tax. Mr. Bennett has offered us nothing for the best part of Canada."
